Birth certificates are often needed to receive medical assistance, housing and other public benefits, to obtain a Pennsylvania driver's or non-driver's license, for access to many public buildings, and for many other general identification purposes.

Individuals who attend this clinic will meet with a legal advocate who will request birth certificates from the state of their birth, free of charge, for them and/or their minor children.

Birth certificates requested at this clinic may take up to 12 weeks to receive back from the requested state.
